

Keynote Speaker

Chad Sheehan is a 23-year veteran of Law Enforcement who recently retired from the Sioux City, IA police department to devote teaching the S.A.V.E. Yourself program full-time. At the time of his retirement he was assigned to the Hostage Negotiation Unit, Field Training Officer, and was a Honor Guard and a Critical Incident Stress Management team member. He developed the S.A.V.E. Yourself program and is a certified instructor in Rapid Response to active shooter, Conflict Resolution, Tactical Communication and DARE. He previously worked as a school resource officer at a Sioux City high school with over 1,200 students and 200 staff members. With young children at home, Chad has made surviving workplace violence/active killer a top priority in both his professional and personal life. S.A.V.E. Yourself has been taught to over 250,000 people in 27 states since January 2014. Additionally, Chad has provided training in crime prevention topics to hundreds of businesses and schools while educating thousands throughout his career.
